Today's Thought

The world owes no man a living. The debt is the other way. The man owes the world work.

JOHN FEDIO Arrested at Carstairs Remanded Until June 18

Last Wednesday at Carstairs, John Fedio was taken into Custody by Corporal Cameron, and charged at the Calgary Police Station under the Railways Act. He was remanded until June 18th.

Corporal Cameron, of the local RCMP, had occasion last Wednesday to search a freight train at Carstairs. In the course of his inspection he ran across John Fedio, who, upon seeing Corporal Cameron, decided he would not stay for a conversation and lit out as fast as he could.

Leading Don a merry chase all over the Village he was at last apprehended, and upon being searched found to have two revolvers in his possession.

It is possible that he will face two charges, Riding on Freight Train and carrying concealed weapons.

Crossfield Sports Day July 1st, Goes On

A specially convened meeting of the Sports Committee of the Board of Trade was held Friday evening last.

It had been indicated from many quarters that the price of admission (50 cents) was too high.

After a great deal of discussion the Committee decided to reduce the admission fee to 25 cents for Adults, Children free.

It is, of course, fully realized that in reducing the price of admission, the Committee had no other recourse than to reduce all other things accordingly.

Our readers are asked to bear this in mind, when reading the posters, which will be issued this week.

As the Public pays, so does it demand, and to meet the demands suits must be cut to fit the cloth.

Old Resident Revisits Crossfield

Some 33 years ago Mr. J. Cressman homesteaded west of town. In 1918 he sold out to Mr. A. Melling.

Moving back to Kitchener, Ont., he entered into business, and Kitchener has been his place of abode ever since.

Deciding to combine business with pleasure, Mr. Cressman booked for Victoria, and on his way west stopped off at Crossfield for a few days to renew acquaintances.

Joe sees the most noticeable improvement he sees in the trees.

School Patrol Plan Interests A.M.A. Branches

Prepared at all times to take a forefront place in sponsoring safety measures, the Alberta Motor Association branches have been looking into the success of a school patrol system recently inaugurated in Winnipeg.

In the United States these patrols have given highly satisfactory results in the 1,100 cities in which they have been established.

Taking the lead, Winnipeg had placed 50 of these patrols at intersections near five schools and is preparing to train 350 more boys for similar duties.

The patrol's duty is to instruct, direct and control members of the student body in crossing the streets at or near the schools.

Each patrol wears a white Sam Browne belt, which is his insignia of office. They are not permitted to have in their possession any signs, signals, flags, sticks or whistles.

Under the standard rules, the patrols are not to be charged with directing vehicular traffic nor be allowed to do so, other than signalling to a motorist who is approaching the crossing after the student pedestrian has left the curb.

One of the chief duties of the patrols is to instruct school children with regard to safe practices in their use of the streets at all times and places.

The Winnipeg system has been outlined to Edmonton and Calgary branches of the A.M.A. with the result that it may not be long before similar patrols are operating in this province.

New Methods For Control of Wild Oats and Dandelions

Northwest Grain Dealers' Association Reports on Results of Experiments

Development of most modern methods of eradication and control of Wild Oats is outlined in a pamphlet which has just been issued by the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association. The study has been compiled by Dr. G. P. McRostie, Professor of Agronomy, University of Manitoba, and Mr. W. H. Silversides, B.S.A., Assistant on Weed Research. The study indicates that Wild Oats are one of the most prevalent weeds in Western Canada.

A further preliminary pamphlet, which will be of great interest to townspeople, has also been issued, dealing with dandelions. The report states that copper nitrate is a practical chemical spray, which will kill the dandelion when it is applied at the proper time and rate. Spudding out the plants, gasoline, fuel oil, and solvent, have been found to be ineffective in the control of this weed. Common salt or copper sulphate may be used with reasonable success. Further research is being conducted into the control of dandelions in arriving at the most effective time for application of the copper nitrate. Copies of this dandelion pamphlet may be obtained by writing to Northwest Grain Dealers' Association, Winnipeg.

Following is a summary of the conclusions arrived at in connection with the control and eradication of Wild Oats.

Wild Oats are a widespread and very serious weed, causing large annual losses to the farmers of Western Canada; the chief means of spread is by the seed, hence the chief means of control lies in the prevention of seed formation. The seeding of Wild Oats with the seed of cultivated crops can be greatly lessened by a more thorough cleaning of the seed with suitable mills including a careful adjustment of the threshing machine. Where feed containing Wild Oat seeds is fed to animals it should either be ground or the manure from the animals allowed to rot for a sufficient length of time to destroy the germination of the seeds. Control by cultivation is more effective when done after the Wild Oat plant has reached the four leaf stage of development. The control of Wild Oats by the growing of green feed crops is a cheap and effective method where the crop is cut in sufficient time to prevent seeding. The use of a rotation containing a hay and pasture crop greatly reduces the number of Wild Oats on any infested farm.

Copies of the Wild Oat pamphlet may be obtained from any line elevator Agent.

The line elevator companies have performed very valuable service for the farmers of Western Canada in the weed research work conducted during the past few years. Much valuable information dealing with the control and eradication of weeds has been gained, which has been made available to all farmers.

The Need For Security

With the international situation, not only in Europe but also in the Orient, becoming daily more fraught with peril, the necessity for a rejuvenated and strengthened League of Nations becomes apparent, if world peace is to be preserved.

First hint of the likelihood of an eventuality, which must have been obvious for some time to student-observers of international trends came in despatches recently to the daily press of this country when the Italian Mussolini was reported to be paving the way for a rapprochement between Italy, Germany and Austria by attempting to effect a reconciliation of differences between the last two mentioned countries.

When one considers the situation in which these three countries find themselves an alliance in a common cause appears a natural probability. All three sustained serious losses during the Great War and its aftermath. All three are in urgent need of extension of territory to provide an outlet for a large number of unemployed or partially submerged population or as a source of raw materials or for the promotion of trade or for all three. All three are in the same political as well as the same economic boat for they are fascist, dictator-ruled. The people of all three countries are intensely ambitious to regain what they have lost and this is probably the principal reason why they are content with the form of government they have.

It is true that the Italian aggression in Ethiopia, appears, on the face of it, to have resulted in triumphant achievement for the Italian forces, but it is doubtful whether, in the long run, acquisition of Abyssinia, even if subsequent events do not result in some modification of the fruits of victory at the instance of the League, will prove of great economic benefit to Rome. In any event, it can surely be taken for granted that Mussolini and the Italian people, in their present frame of mind, will not be satisfied to call it a day and sheathe the sword.

With this Italian virulence prevailing and Germany and France eyeing one another with distrust and apprehension, an alliance between Germany and Italy, fortified by Austria, could not be calculated to render the European situation more secure. Both Italy and Germany are not only well armed and equipped but are perfecting their war machines to the nth degree of perfection, including the training of children of tender years.

The situation is an exceedingly difficult one for Great Britain whose people do not wish to be dragged into another conflagration. On the contrary the inhabitants of the "right little island" are bending their energies towards recovery of economic conditions and statistics prove that they are well on the road towards this objective.

While the British government is keenly alive to the dangers of the international situation, fortunately her statesmen are not disposed to be stampeded into any precipitate measures and quite evidently the people of the country are well satisfied with Anthony Eden's recent assurance that in the council of the League of Nations the country is prepared to "play its part."

Expressing satisfaction with this viewpoint the London Times in a recent editorial said:

"If the League, even the incomplete League, had disposed of the will, as it certainly has done of the means, to bring aggression to a standstill by economic non-cooperation, nothing would now be heard of the contention that the refusal of aid to the aggressor means war; peace would have been made successful trial of its resources, and generally we should be looking on a very different picture today."

"Yet, as the League has succeeded, as it clearly could have succeeded in the policy of passive resistance, it would still have been necessary to write another chapter in its development and to increase its powers by completing its membership and making its functions correspond with its capacity. The obstacle to be overcome is the 'spirit of mutual distrust' between France and Germany."

"The outlook would be gloomy indeed if no effort were being, or could be, made to attack this mistrust at its roots, and no responsibility could be more willingly and gladly borne by British statesmanship than that of seeking the means to end an antagonism which survives to the common danger."

The Times goes on to say that this endeavor was moved into the stage of "serious practical discussions when the questions addressed to the German government on the subject of Herr Hitler's proposals for a lasting European settlement were published in a British White Paper" and suggests that conversations be pursued in a manner that will permit of "fewer opportunities for any possible misunderstanding of tone and intention on either side."

Bears Attack Aeroplane

Ripped Off Door While Machine Was Parked Overnight

Unreported for two months, J. C. F. Dalziel, "mystery" flying trapper of the north, has flown to Fort Simpson, N.W.T., from his remote trapline with his aeroplane patched up where two grizzly bears ripped off the door and damaged fabric around it.

Dalziel, who went out to Edmonton last year, learned to fly and came back with an aeroplane, and the bears went after the machine while it was "parked" overnight in snow. The bears were after a bundle of beaver skins in the craft.

The flyer trapper brought a good catch of fur when he arrived at Fort Simpson, and said his winter trapping operations were successful.

A Grim Story

One Person Killed Every Six Minutes In U.S. Last Year

Coming, appropriately enough, from Chicago, there was a grim tale in last week's papers. It told that in the United States last year they killed one person every six minutes. The National Safety Council figured it out this way:

99,000 killed; 365,000 permanently injured; 8,100,000 temporarily disabled; 271 killed every day; 11 every hour, one every six minutes; 25,000 injured every day, 1,000 every hour, 16 every minute; 1,000 permanently injured every day, 41 every hour. Total financial damage $30,000,000 in property loss, wage loss, medical expense.

What puzzles us is how the life and accident insurance companies stand it. As for war, well, it just doesn't compare with this day-to-day United States slaughter.

Nor should the rest of us feel complacent, nor superior. We too rush about like mad, killing and maiming one another needlessly, making life a sort of shambles. Ottawa Journal.

Russian Armaments

Soviet Government Plans To Expend Huge Sum This Year

When the Japanese war office starts to draw attention to the weight of Russian armaments, there is some reason to suggest that the pot is calling the kettle black. Japan devoted 47 per cent. of her whole budgetary expenditure last year to defence, and this year proposes to spend 50 per cent. Even so her military budgets, and those of all other countries, pale into insignificance by comparison with Russia's. Marshal Tukachevski, deputy-commissioner of defence, recently announced that in 1936 the Soviet would expend 14,800,000,000 roubles, on her military forces. At the official rate of exchange this sum represents £2,600,000,000 sterling. Britain has for months been debating whether she should spend half the latter sum, spread over a period of years, on modernizing her sea, land and air forces. From all this it is clear enough that, whether the Japanese war office wishes to put the nation on guard or merely to raise a bogey, it has substantial material to exploit.—Auckland News.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out ten pounds of bile every day. If it doesn't, you're not doing freely, your food doesn't digest, and you're liable to be nervous, gas, bloated, poor stomach. You get constipated. Harsh pills go into the body, and you feel sick and the world looks black. A more natural way to "wake up" the liver is to take one of these two little pills. They are called "Little Liver Pills" and they are made of natural herbs and are gentle, they are free of any harmful effects. They are the only pills of natural last have no harmful or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. (Don't buy a cheap imitation!) Stubbornly refuse anything else. See.

A Serious Problem

Restoration of Confidence In The Country's Wheat Is Needed

Canada's most serious problem in the opinion of Dr. W. W. Swanson, head of the department of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, is a restoration of confidence in the country's wheat.

This is particularly so after the "alarmist" publicity given to the product because of a temporary crop surplus, said Dr. Swanson. The surplus, he held, was only temporary although it has aroused wholly unfounded fears of overproduction.

"There has never been any world overproduction of wheat nor any chance of world overproduction," he said in an interview in Montreal. "There was a temporary condition of surplus produced by unusual crop conditions in 1928, which was exaggerated by the crash of speculative markets. It has been impossible for this country to sell its wheat freely at fair prices until this alarm dies down."

Adopt New Method

Nicola Valley Leads The World In Fighting Hoppers

The Nicola valley in mid-southwestern British Columbia leads the world in fighting grasshoppers—the dreaded locust menace of ancient days.

According to word received by the provincial department of agriculture, the method used there of systematically poisoning the egg beds of the grasshoppers, has been approved by a world conference of entomologists at Cairo, Egypt, as being the most effective. Nicola is the only place where this has been done over a period of years.

Women Police Make Good

Number Attached To Scotland Yard Will Be Increased

The few women who have been attached to the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard have justified their appointment so well that their number is soon to be considerably increased.

At present there are three women detectives in the west end divisions of the Metropolitan police force, and it is suggested there should be at least one woman detective in each division.

Originated With Latin Poet

The expression "Rome was not built in a day" is believed to have originated with the poet Claudius Claudianus, one of the last of the Latin poets (about 400 A.D.). Claudian wrote: "What Roman power slowly built, an unarméd thrust instantly overthrew." The proverb gradually became modified until it survives in its present form.

Peter reports that business there has been improving since early 1933.

Worth Fabulous Sum

Chicago Jeweller Not Disclosing Priced Paid For Gemmed Crown

In a gilded hotel suite in New York, Warren Piper, a Chicago jeweller, displayed a great glittering diadem which he described as the storied and all-but-priceless crown of Our Lady of the Andes.

A group of visitors stood pop-eyed before the magnificence of the crown, which Piper, head of the American syndicate which just has come into possession of the object, had placed in a dull wooden case, flooded by indirect lights.

The gold of the diadem gleamed dully against the green radiance shooting from the stones, which Piper said were emeralds, encrusting and hanging pendant from the crown.

Piper declined specifically to estimate its value, saying the emeralds it contained were all but priceless, but he mentioned $4,500,000 as an approximate figure.

White-faced with apparent excitement, he said he could give no exact information as yet to just what will be done with the crown. He added, however, it might first be placed on exhibition and later broken up for sale to private individuals.

Here is substantially the story of the diadem as related by Piper: It was completed in 1599 and taken from the Incas by Pizarro's Conquistadores in the conquest of Peru four centuries ago. Negotiations for sale of the diadem, described as the most valuable ever owned by the Catholic Church, were begun in 1914, proceeds to go to charity.

Piper and his associates more than a year ago began active negotiations. Meanwhile, the crown had been under safekeeping in New York.

Piper would not disclose the price paid. He said merely that money went to several South Americans claiming a part ownership, as well as to the church.

Has Peculiar Style

England's Walking Champion May Be Barred From Olympics

A man with an Olympic worry is V. W. G. Stone, England's walking champion—and for good reason.

Stone is a blue streak on the cinders, so much faster than his British rivals that they scarcely can keep him in sight, yet the Olympic officials have notified him he won't be among those present at Berlin this summer unless he alters his walking style!

"And why just?" asks Stone, justifiably, having just won the British seven-mile championship. "Because," comes the rejoinder, "we're not so sure that you're really walking. Maybe you're running."

And that's how matters stand. A potential Olympic champion (they claim his time is well under the Olympic record) might have to stay at home because his country's officials don't wish to take any chances.

Moving pictures, it is pointed out by Stone's supporters, reveal nothing amiss with his walking. He retains, in spite of his broken contact with the ground, which is the vital difference between walking and running. Yet he has such a peculiar, unorthodox gait, and is so much speedier than any rival hereabouts, that officials simply won't believe it.

Not Room For Candles

John Birch of North Bay, Ontario, celebrated a birthday June 5, but the cake wouldn't hold candles enough to mark the occasion. Claimed to be the oldest white man in Canada, Mr. Birch entered his 114th year of life.

The brain is not mentioned in the Bible. Only in modern times has this organ's function been known. Aristotle, learned Greek, believed its purpose was to cool the blood.

Depends On The Country

Whether Gold Shipments Have To Be Heavily Guarded

A traveler recently returned from foreign parts tells me a story about gold. It seems that the ship on which this traveler returned loaded a large consignment of gold at Havre. The stuff was loaded much like any other cargo, only it was lowered into a special hold. And what struck my informant about the operation was the fact that while the loading was in progress not a single uniformed minion of French law was in sight on the dock or on the ship.

There were numerous representatives of the banks making the shipment and numerous French longshoremen in blue blouses gesticulating and calling to each other in the high-pitched nasal tones which foreigners who try to learn French are never able to reproduce. The banks' agents simply checked the gold against the ship's officers' check with them. Then the hatches were closed, and that was that.

But when the ship got to New York passengers were astonished to see what looked like a whole platoon of police rush on the gangplank the moment the ship docked.

The voyager from whom I had the story says he thought perhaps the ship was bringing back some dangerous criminal incognito, but when he inquired he found that the police had come aboard only to stand guard while the gold was being unloaded.—Baltimore Sun.

Honor Conferred On Seven-Year-Old Boy In England

George Thornton, aged seven, of Nottingham, is the youngest hospital governor in England. He has just been elected a life governor of the Royal Eye Hospital, Southmark. The honor was conferred on him because of his success as a collector for the hospital. George was a patient at the hospital two years ago.

Letter Will Be Treasured

Has Been Twice Around World And Was Sunk In Air Liner

Rare letter was found among the letters recovered from the rumken air liner, City of Khartoum, which crashed into the sea off Alexandria, killing 12 people. It had been twice around the world. The letter, was sent to Mr. E. W. C. Hughes, of Bowaters (Australia), Ltd. It was posted in London to reach Mr. Hughes when he arrived in Montreal. He had already left Montreal when it arrived. The letter was then forwarded to him in New York. It missed him there too. From New York it was sent to a wrong address to Sydney, and redirected to the sender in London. It set out again on its travels in the City of Khartoum and went to the bottom of the sea with the rest of the mail. And now at last the letter has reached Mr. Hughes, who says he will treasure it as a memento of a very tragic occurrence. Although it is tattered and stained with salt water, the contents are easily legible.

Rather Snappy Problem

Deciding Whether Rubber Bands Were Classed As Stationery

Rubber bands vexed the Dominion railway board when it tried to decide whether they were stationery and hence entitled to lower freight rates.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, chairman, said they were used in stores instead of string and string is not stationery. They are nearly all sold by stationers so must be stationery. D. W. Buchanan argued for the stationers' Guild of Canada. George Ranson, chairman of the Canadian Freight Association, declared "drug stores sell sandwiches, but that doesn't make sandwiches drugs." Elastic bands have an elastic price, Mr. Ranson said. In Toronto they are $150 a unit, in Montreal $120, in Regina $175.

Lived Centuries Ago

Gold-Encased Body Of Old Chief Priest Found

Discovery of a gold-encased body, believed to be that of Ka Nih, chief priest in the fifth Egyptian dynasty, was announced by Selim Hassan Bey, professor of Egyptology at the University of Cairo. The professor found a body wrapped in gold leaf and wearing a thin gold crown. A head necklace also was found as well as a gold-encased cane. Ka Nih was Director of Granaries, chief scribe and chief priest to the Pharaoh Sahure. Sahure lived about 3200 years B.C.

GENERAL ELECTION FOR QUEBEC IS SET FOR AUGUST 15

Quebec.—The political sun has set on Louis Alexandre Taschereau.

The suave, silver-haired French-Canadian lawyer who spent half his 70 years in public life, resigned from the premiership of Quebec—just a month after the Liberal party celebrated its 39th successive year in power.

On his recommendation, Hon. Adolphe Godbout, former minister of agriculture, was sworn in as premier, shortly after the legislature was dissolved and the premier had announced a general election would be held Aug. 15.

It was a day of fast-moving events and the capital. But the premier's resignation did not come as a surprise. For days it had been considered imminent. Numerous rumors failed only to specify the definite time. They said Premier Taschereau would end his political life and there would be a reshuffling of the cabinet.

Mr. Taschereau, meanwhile, issued a long statement explaining his reasons for resigning.

"I leave political life," he said, "without bitterness and without anger against anyone, wishing as I do to remember only the pleasures it has brought me, the friends I have made and the little good I have been able to accomplish."

Mr. Taschereau said he had planned to retire before the last general election, but he felt he would not be doing his duty if he abandoned his party "at a time when it was the object of the most violent attacks from our opponents."

Mr. Godbout was sworn in as premier by Dr. Alfred Morrisette, clerk of the executive council, in the presence of the Lieutenant-governor and the former premier.

Opposition Leader Maurice Duplessis, whose Conservative forces, allied with the ranks of Action Libérale Nationale, lent such a staggering blow to the Liberal house in last November's general election, said he found the government's "manner of proceeding rather curious."

"Not only had the legislature been dissolved, he said, but also the Taschereau regime. He voiced the intention of carrying on his work at the public accounts committee."

"We were just commencing the inquiry," he said, "and had only started to bring to light the scandal I have promised to prove. Now the government asks that the house be dissolved." The work would be continued by the next government, however, "and I can assure you," said Mr. Duplessis, "restitution will be forced from those who have pocketed public funds and those guilty of criminal offences will be sent to jail."

Just A Formal Motion

Finance Minister Asking Authority To Borrow Up To $750,000,000

Ottawa.—Authority for the necessary refunding and borrowing the government may normally expect in the next two or three years will be sought from parliament in a resolution appearing on votes and proceedings in the name of Finance Minister Dunning.

The motion is for authority to borrow up to a maximum of $750,000,000 to be used for redemption of outstanding loans, purchasing or withdrawing from circulation unmatured securities and for public works and general purposes. It is a formal motion adopted by parliament at necessary intervals so that ample authority may be ready at any time the need arises to negotiate loans.

Canada Purchases Arms

Washington.—Canada bought United States-made arms and military materials to the amount of $7,203 during May, it was announced by Secretary of State Hull. Argentina headed all American nations with purchases of $889,321. China was the largest buyer of American arms, taking $1,380,102 worth.

For Toronto Exhibition

Toronto.—Public schools from as far away as Grenfell and Yorkton, Sask., and Edmonton, have already sent entries to the art, manual training, needlework and other competitions at the Canadian National Exhibition here this year. Toronto and suburban schools have forwarded a total of 60,000 entries.

Code For Girl Workers

National Council of Women Urge 60-Hour Week

Halifax.—The National Council of Women, in annual convention here, adopted in principle a code for household workers and employers which, among other things, would call for a work week of not more than 60 hours, overtime pay and a minimum wage schedule.

Miss A. M. Ward, of the Halifax Young Women's Christian Association, presented the code and after considerable discussion the convention decided to send it to local councils throughout Canada.

The code presented by Miss Ward was:

1.—Working hours per week should not exceed 60, including meal hours. This would involve (approximately) (a) an 11-hour day; (b) two weekly half-days off, one preferably Sunday.

2.—Minimum wage in cities over 100,000: Inexperienced, household help, $17 per month; experienced, $22. Minimum wage in cities under 100,000: Inexperienced, $15; experienced, $20.

3.—Overtime work should be paid for either in money or extra time off.

4.—Hours off, rates of pay and general outline of duties should be set at time of employment.

5.—Separate room for sleeping should be provided, and some facilities for entertaining.

Arctic Expedition

Party Of University Graduates Sail

Churchill, Man.—After several previous unsuccessful attempts, the British Canadian Arctic expedition, 1936-1939, sailed northward recently in the whaleboat Polcat, towing a large canoe for use in case of emergency.

No ice was in sight in Hudson Bay as the expedition in charge of Thomas H. Manning, set out; but they expected to encounter some before they reach Rankin Inlet, their first stop. Other members of the party, all Cambridge University graduates, are Patrick Baird, Dr. Richard Keeling, Reynold Bray and Graham Rowley.

Under the auspices of the Royal Geographic Society, the expedition will spend the first winter at Repulse Bay, 550 miles north of here. The following winter will be spent in the neighborhood of the north magnetic pole and the third winter will be spent in northern parts of Baffin Island and Ellesmere Island.

Reduced Railway Fares

Special Holiday Rates Arranged For Dominion Day

Winnipeg.—Reduced fares between all points in Canada are announced by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways for Dominion Day, July 1, according to Joseph B. Parker, western secretary of the Canadian Passenger Association.

With the holidays falling on Wednesday, tickets are made good from Tuesday, June 30 to July 1. These can be obtained for the going journey from June 30 to 2 p.m. on July 1, and returning are good till midnight on Thursday, July 2.

As arranged also for the King's birthday, June 29, the Dominion Day fares include one-way coach, class fare and one-third for the round trip going in coaches and in tourist sleeping cars on payment for that accommodation, and one way first class fare and one-third for the trip going in sleeping and parlor cars on payment for this first class accommodation.

From the number of enquiries already received at headquarters of both railways, both King's birthday and Dominion Day holiday rates indicate a large passenger list.

British Wheat Reserve

United Kingdom Has Three Months Supply In Case Of War

London.—The United Kingdom's present wheat supply would feed the country for about three months in the event of war cutting off further shipments, Sir Thomas Inskip informed the House of Commons.

The question was raised by W. S. Liddell, Conservative, who asked the defence co-ordination minister what measures were being taken to assure a reserve supply of grain in case of war.

"The question of a sufficient wheat reserve will be considered by the committee which is now engaged in examining the whole subject of food supplies in war time," Sir Thomas replied.

CAHAN CLASHES WITH McGEER ON MONETARY POLICY

Ottawa.—Two men as far apart as the poles in their monetary beliefs, Charles Hazlett Cahan, secretary of state in the Bennett administration, and Gerald Grattan McGeer, financial reformer from Vancouver, crossed swords in the House of Commons.

The buttons were off the tolls from the start with the Montrealese accusing the British Columbia Liberal of advancing half-baked financial ideas which eventually would lead to wildcat inflation and ruin for the country.

The man from the far west, just as Celtic as his name indicates, came back in kind, accusing Mr. Cahan of avoiding facts, entertaining false premises and continuing support to a system that has brought Canada to the brink of disaster.

The former cabinet minister sounded a rally call for men to stand together against inflation which he believed was moving fast into the centre of the political stage in Canada.

"Men on either side of the house," exclaimed Mr. Cahan, "who take a conservative view, not in a political sense but a conservative and perhaps traditional view, must be prepared to advocate what they believe to be sound and sane national policies with regard to monetary matters, whether it cuts athwart their own political party or the political party on the other side."

By references to post-war Germany and other instances in history, Mr. Cahan pointed to the perils of inflation which he believed left misery, disaster and ruin in its wake. In his judgment, inflation or no inflation rapidly was becoming a major question in Canada and he promised to do everything possible to stop the printing presses.

Back came Mr. McGeer at him, accusing him of casting aspersions and jeers at him because he could not meet his arguments in favor of a managed currency and a central bank that would issue currency and credit in terms of public needs, not for private gain.

Inflation was not his remedy, said Mr. McGeer. "What I do say is that within the limits of our gold reserves, our gold production, our legal tender currency and our practice of creating an effective bank credit transferable by cheque, there is more money available than is necessary to finance the government without a disastrous imposition of taxation."

Had Narrow Escape

Darjeeling, India.—Reports from the British advance party seeking to climb Mount Everest said the group had narrowly escaped death June 6 when a sudden avalanche swept down the mountain side. The party was trying to reach camp four, high up on the slope toward the 29,000-foot peak, the loftiest in the world.

Honors For Sir Edward Beatty

New York.—New York University conferred an honorary degree of doctor of laws on Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and chancellor of McGill University.

PROMINENT WESTERN FAMILIES LINKED BY MARRIAGE

A scene along the First Presbyterian Church, Regina, on the occasion of the marriage of Audrey Bell and Charles Edward Michener. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bell of Regina, and the late George Bell, well-known Western Canada newspaperman, and Mr. Michener is the son of Senator and Mrs. E. Michener, of Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Michener will reside in Sudbury, Ontario.

RETURNS TO CABINET

Sir Samuel Hoare, brilliant British parliamentarian, who was forced to resign from the Cabinet several months ago, has returned to the British Cabinet as First Lord of the Admiralty. This is a very important post, particularly in view of the present tense situation in Europe and Asia.

Counterfeiter At Work

Bank Of Canada Notes Are Raised By Skilful Art Work

Ottawa.—The Bank of Canada disclosed search was being made for a man who had raised three or four of the bank's bills by skilful art work of a $2 bill into a $20 on one occasion.

Governor Graham Towers said he believed there were not more than four of the bills in circulation and that they had been traced in Ontario and Manitoba.

One of the notes, recovered by police, was of $2 denomination in the French issue. The numerals $2 were changed to $20 and the word, "Deux Dollars" were darkened so as to be almost imperceptible in the lathe-work.

The same words on the lower border of the front of the note were faked out and "twenty dollars" substituted.

Will Make An Exception

C.P.R. Steamship Company Not Taking Action Against Stowaway

Southampton.—The Canadian Pacific Steamship Company took the unusual course of asking leave to withdraw a charge of stowing away in Southampton police court against Henry James Bunker, 23-year-old Montreal window-dresser.

A. R. Lightfoot, on behalf of the Canadian Pacific, told the magistrate the company did not want to encourage stowaways, but in this case intended to make an exception.

Bunker apparently stowed away at Quebec aboard the liner Empress of Australia with the idea of joining the Royal Air Force. During the voyage he impressed the ship's officers with his willingness to work hard and good behavior. He promised repayment for his passage.

Ends First Round Trip

Southampton.—R.M.S. Queen Mary, completing her first round trip to North America, docked June 10 at 2:25 p.m. G.M.T. (7:25 a.m. M.S.T.).

The Queen Mary was delayed by fog on her first eastbound transatlantic trip, as she had been on the outward journey.

Scotland Yard Expert

Sir Patrick Quinn Of Investigation Department Is Dead

New York.—A London despatch to the New York Times says Sir Patrick Quinn, 80, former superintendent of the criminal investigation department Scotland Yard, is dead.

Because of this knowledge, he was invariably entrusted with the protection of Queen Victoria, Edward VII. and George V. during their sojourns abroad and also was made responsible for the safety of all foreign rulers visiting England. Sir Patrick shunned publicity. When a few weeks after the outbreak of the war it became known that he had been able to round up nearly all the principal German spies in the United Kingdom, it was suggested that his success should be published, but he objected.

"For heaven's sake," he said, "let everybody think us stupid and inefficient! It is our greatest asset."

SENATE REJECTS AMENDMENTS TO THE B. N. A. ACT

Ottawa.—Senate division bells rang the death knell of immediate constitutional reform when the predominant Conservative majority of the senate chieftains united in a straight party vote to defeat 40-15, the joint petition to Westminster asking for specific amendments to the British North America Act.

Mr. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, refused to accept a proposed amendment from the government side which sought to satisfy objections to the proposal to obtain constitutional power for the provinces to impose indirect taxation. "I am against the amendment and against the services," he declared.

The Conservative leader declared the time had arrived when the government should come to grips with the problem of provincial expenditures for social services they could not afford and relief of unemployed who refused to work.

The joint address, which was adopted in the House of Commons without division, was a petition to the British parliament to amend the British North America Act in two respects. One clause sought power for the provinces to impose sales taxes on certain classes of commodities, the other to provide necessary power for the minister of finance to set up provincial loan councils.

Under the constitution provinces many impose only direct taxes and the indirect taxation field is restricted to the Dominion. Certain forms of indirect taxation, such as those on luxuries and entertainment, are already being imposed but subject to challenge on constitutional grounds.

There was little debate on the loan council phase of the address, but Hon. Raoul Dandurand, government leader, declared from the first that no motion could be accepted that would take anything away from the address. Defeat of the amendment by a recorded vote was followed by rejection of the address on the same division.

Previously, when the address had been studied before the senate banking and commerce committee, a recommendation from that body, originating with Senator Meighen, that the taxation clause should be deleted was adopted in the senate by a vote of 50-10, with three Liberals supporting the Conservative majority. These three senators—A. C. Hardy (Brookville), E. S. Little (London), and J. J. Hughes (Prince Edward Island), returned to the Liberal side in the final vote.

Opposition to the address had been based mainly on the conviction expressed by Mr. Meighen that to legalize imposition of indirect taxation to the provinces would be to make it possible for each province to set up what would be an effective tariff wall about itself and lead to disintegration of the Dominion.

Senator Meighen went further and launched a bitter attack on the conditions which had led to provinces entering into heavy expenditures for social services beyond their power to pay, imposition of taxes which a great number of people could not pay, and sustaining unemployed who would not work.

Other senators on the Conservative side raised the question as to whether the provinces really desired the constitutional changes, declaring that no concrete evidence had been laid before them that such an agreement existed.

PROBE METHODS FOR REDUCING THE WHEAT SURPLUS

Ottawa.—A royal commission will investigate wheat marketing if the recommendation submitted to the house by the special committee on the subject is accepted by the government. Trade Minister Euler was chairman of the committee and two other ministers, Hon. James Gardiner and Hon. T. A. Crerar, served on it, so there is little doubt its unanimous recommendations will be carried out.

The report was unanimous and found the course taken by the new wheat board under the chairman-ship of James R. Murray was consistent with the policy of the government to reduce the wheat surplus to reasonable proportions.

A commission of three will probably be appointed and one of its duties will be to study marketing conditions in the United Kingdom and other importing countries in Europe. The committee spent many days hearing the evidence of James R. Murray, chairman of the Canadian wheat board, and members of the Winnipeg grain exchange, so the commission will have a great amount of data on the Canadian end of the marketing.

There have also been other commissions studying the Canadian side of the selling of wheat, the last being that headed by Sir Josiah Stamp. There has been no such study of the buying side in overseas markets.

The report proposed the commission make "complete survey of the production, grading and distribution of Canadian grain, including the methods of marketing by the producers themselves through co-operative and stabilizing efforts. The agency of a government wheat board and the powers such a board possess; the open market or the competitive method—and further to inquire into the general effect of mixing, if any, and of selection of protein content by millers and exporters."

The committee found no fault with the operations of the present wheat board. Regarding claims the board had unduly protected shorts last December when the announcement of the Argentine minimum price sent the market up, the report said there had been no evidence submitted to substantiate those claims but the commission might go more deeply into them.

Would Lift Sanctions

Neville Chamberlain Urges System Of Regional Security

London.—Lifting of sanctions from Italy and organization of a system of regional security were urged by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

Addressing the 1900 Club, the chancellor added that before these proposals can be "translated in action, we must take counsel with others, particularly those dominions whose partnership with us means so much for the influence of the British empire in the world."

Mr. Chamberlain alluded to the recent circling of Viscount Cecil to members of the League of Nations union urging pressure against the government to pursue sanctions and even intensify them with the object of still preserving the independence of Ethiopia.

That, the chancellor declared, "is the very mid-summer of madness."

Republican Candidate

Governor Lambda Of Kansas Nominated For U.S. President

Convention Hall, Cleveland.—In a tremendous demonstration of enthusiasm, and with only 19 votes in opposition, the Republican national convention nominated Governor Alf. M. Lambda of Kansas for the United States presidency.

State after state cast their entire delegate votes for the so-called "Coolidge of the west" after a ruling it was necessary to call the roll. Shouts of "no" greeted the rule, as the convention obviously wanted to make it by acclamation.

Experts Go To England

Ottawa.—The advance guard of departmental experts who will start reviewing Canada's trade agreement with the United Kingdom sailed June 12 from Montreal. The experts will lay the groundwork for possible negotiations later in the summer when ministers of the government will go overseas.

Between Ourselves

Alas, Dear Readers, unless our S.O.S. of last week is responded to very, very, quickly, the good ship "Chronicle" will be wrecked on the shoals of "Non Sufficient Funds." The Chronicle can be saved, if all subscribers in arrears immediately respond, and bring up to date their Subscriptions. Come forth dear readers and take your stand upon the bridge of paid up subscribers and help steer the Chronicle in to trusted channels, and an even keel.

The youngsters get in free, so Parents, see that you come and bring the children, and R. E. Greene will see that all get equal chances to try and cop some of the splendid prizes he has for them.

It's a day for all Prizes and No Blanks, so come and bring the family, visit with old friends who will be there, in fact make a day of it.

A big Dance will round up the day, and the merry Melody Boys promise you a good time.

Weather conditions at the present time are ideal and the crops making splendid headway. All in all conditions look very bright, and may this condition continue.

As we go to press we are in the process of printing the 1936 School Fair Prize List, and from its contents we find many interesting things. If the Fair is accorded the support that it certainly warrants, then the work of the Secretary and his assistants will be well rewarded.

How many of the pupils, parents, and teachers, when the lists are placed in their hands, give thought to the time, work, and energy displayed by Secretary May, first, in getting the necessary donations, prizes and the advertisements that go to help the cause.

Harry is certainly worthy of great credit for the work he does in this connection, and if not rewarded here on earth, will we feel sure obtain it in the hereafter.

Teachers, Parents, encourage the children to enter the Fair in a whole hearted way, seeing to it of course, that the work is entirely their own. Encourage that true competitive spirit, amongst the children so that in the event of them obtaining rewards for their efforts, they will feel and realize that it was their own initiative that gained for them the crown of success.

A stimulant by way of two prizes in this year given to the teachers, as a slight reward for the good work they are doing with their pupils.

Radio Interference

A peculiar characteristic of radio broadcasting which has been the subject of considerable study is the variation in the field strength or fading at a given point, frequently accompanied by severe distortion of the received signal. The fluctuations over a 24-hour period are considerably less in the daytime than at night. Fading is attributed to the behavior of what is known as the radio roof or the Heaviside layer high up in the earth's atmosphere, which is supposed to change its position during a 24-hour period. The introduction of automatic volume control has tended to iron out and correct the variations in signal volume associated with fading. Unfortunately, however, the volume control also automatically increases and decreases the amplification of the local noise signal so that, when the radio signal fades, the noise becomes relatively more pronounced. Therefore, unless this situation is appreciated one may be at times led to conclude that the noise due to a local disturbance varies from day to day whereas what actually often happens is that the signal strength of the broadcasting station is what is varying rather than the intensity of the local disturbance.

In order to make a complete study of any case of radio interference it is necessary to make measurements in definite units both of the signal produced by the broadcasting station and the signal produced by the source of radio interference. To make such measurements a radio noise meter is used. This instrument is of considerable assistance in determining the best procedure to reduce interference in a given case. It is for use by engineers and radio servicemen; however, in many cases the radio set owners by following certain suggestions may effect reductions in the noise in radio sets without going to such refinements in measurements.

Vacation Time

The summer exodus draws nigh. Our Saviour said, "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place and rest awhile." Notice, it was only for a while that He suggested it for a life that is all holiday is a wretched business. Of course, rest is the first glad happy feature of any holiday. To awake in the morning and turn over, not needing to hurry off to work, is a grand and glorious feeling. But it is only so for awhile. A holiday amongst other things teaches us the blessedness of work. Putting in time soon becomes a great labour. A rest is needed by all men but ere long we realize the joys of our regular job. Everyone needs a holiday, especially the person who thinks he needs none. Then the Irishman's picture of happiness "A congenial job well done."

By "Seedling"

During the next few days we hope to be able to mail out the prize-lists, and teachers should try and get their mail before the last day of school, so that they can distribute these to the pupils.

Special attention is called to the rule re: High school pupils, we must draw a line somewhere as to when a child is past school-fair age, and this rule covers the point very clearly.

Teachers who will not be coming back to their respective schools, should, if at all possible, have the school work entries for the fair ready before school closes and leave them with the school secretary.

School-fair coming so soon after opening day, a new teacher does not have much time to prepare for it, so if it should happen that you are leaving, please give a thought to your successor.

We have not received our supply of tags but think we are safe in saying that they will be at school waiting for you when you come back after the holidays.

When you get YOUR copy of this prize-list, read the rules, look at all the prizes and cash donations, then read the advertisements and resolve to do at least some of your shopping with the people who have supported your fair.

Editor's note: The tags have just arrived, please call at the Chronicle Office for your requirements.

FOR THE BLIND

A certain Fanny Goods Dealer in Aberdeen on being told that his blind was a disgrace to a window, excused himself on the plea that a new one was so costly. "But," his friend replied "You'll lose business if you keep a shabby blind like that." "I believe you're right," said the shopkeeper, "I must really see what I can do." Some weeks after, his friend called again and was delighted to see a decided change for the better. "That's a lovely blind you've got," he remarked. "It must have cost a fine penny." "It did that," was the naive reply. "But my customers helped a good deal. You see I placed a collection box on the counter with a printed notice 'FOR THE BLIND,' and I got all I wanted."

Pay Tribute To Memory Of Man Who Did Much For Agriculture In Canada

Doubtless there were few persons who foresaw that the birth of a boy in the County of Devon, England, on June 16, 1856, christened William Saunders was an event that would later prove of the most profound significance to the Dominion of Canada. The fact is that no other man has made a greater contribution to Canadian agriculture than the late Dr. William Saunders. The chain of Dominion Experimental Farms and Stations is virtually a monument to the work he began 50 years ago, for he was the first director of this system of farms, which are now located in strategic positions across the entire length of the Dominion.

The new administration building at the Central Experimental Farm to be known as the William Saunders Building, and which was opened on June 6, stands upon the site of his former home.

William Saunders came to Canada as a boy of 12 with his parents, who settled at London, Ontario, and three years after his retirement as director of the Dominion Experimental Farms, his long, useful life closed. His death removed a man whose contribution to the national welfare in its widest aspect, was fully equal to that of any statesman, or great man in any of the other vocations. It was said of Dr. Saunders that the man did more or will ever have the opportunity which he had and of which he took the fullest advantage to increase the production of land in Canada.

When Hon. John Carling (later Sir John) as Dominion Minister of Agriculture, who represented London, Ontario, in the House of Commons, was authorized in 1885 to proceed with the organization of a system of experimental farms, he selected his fellow citizen, William Saunders, who by that time had established a reputation as a botanist, entomologist, horticulturist and business man, to visit the United States for the purpose of learning how the experiment stations in that country were operated and with what success.

The previous year a Select Committee of the House of Commons was appointed to inquire into the best means of encouraging and developing agriculture in Canada and the establishment of experimental farms was the committee's recommendation. William Saunders' report, following his visit to the United States, resulted in an act being passed in 1886 by the Dominion Parliament for the establishment of an Experimental Farm for the provinces of Ontario and Quebec jointly—this farm to be known as the Central Farm—together with one for the Maritime provinces, one for Manitoba, one for the Northwest Territories (now the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta) and one for British Columbia.

Dr. Saunders' interests, however, included all phases of ornamental horticulture. He was largely responsible for introducing and disseminating in Canada the Caragana or Siberian Pea Tree, which he recognized as having great possibilities for Western Rye grass, while his early interest in the introduction and adoption of better varieties of corn, clovers, and the like, resulted in experiments which in turn caused the adoption of crop practices on which the live stock industry of Eastern Canada has been built.

Because of the great needs for newer and better cereals and the lack of such varieties throughout the world, Dr. Saunders displayed a particular interest towards the unexplored field of plant breeding. He realized that a significant contribution was possible in the field of cereal production. The great North West needed earlier maturing and better varieties. Shortly after his appointment as director of Experimental Farms he undertook to apply the same methods of plant breeding to cereals as he had already succeeded in applying to bush and tree fruits. Imports of varieties of wheat were made from Northern Russia, Northern India, Japan, United States, and elsewhere, but those from the first two mentioned places proved to have the early maturity he so much desired. Unfortunately these varieties were low in yield and of inferior milling quality; hence, in 1888 he began a program of cross-breeding, which in five years time produced over 700 new sorts of wheat, the most of which carried the parent characters of either Red or White Fife varieties which were well known as later maturing, high quality wheats, with also the early maturity characteristics of the imported sorts. Many varieties of cereals which were fixed in type and distributed by him from this earlier work include spring wheat such as Huron, Percy and Preston, Stella barley and Arthur and Mackay field peas. Many exceedingly promising second and third cross wheats still remained to be perfected by rigid selection, such as Markham, the variety from which the 48 varieties of wheat, 11 varieties of oats, 23 varieties of barley, and 24 varieties of peas, together with a vast amount of hybrid material not yet fixed in type. With this foundation on which to work, Sir Charles Saunders developed Marku wheat.

Dr. William Saunders was a great administrator. Those who knew him loved him. He was always kind and considerate, never petulant, but quiet, firm, endowed with excellent judgment of both men and affairs. There was no impetuosity or desire for exaggeration in his character. His regard for the truth in all things was an inflexible characteristic, and he was a strict disciplinarian. He was a strict disciplinarian. He was a strict disciplinarian.

Canadian mayors would be much more impressive people if they were to ride in a state coach, says a Toronto correspondent. The idea of both men and affairs. ### New Society In Japan

Boat Growers Organize And Over 100 Men Enrolled

Whiskers, beards and mustaches of many shapes and sizes were on display in Tokyo when their owners gathered from all parts of Japan and Korea to organize a national society dedicated to the fostering of "beautiful grooming" among old men. More than 100 men, whose ages averaged 70 years, were enrolled. Only a few black beards were in the lot, no reds, but plenty of greys. One mustache originated beneath its owner's nose, then swooped out about eight inches to his left and right, covered up and with a tip in each ear. The record beard, owned by Nobujiro Kato, 72, was five feet long. He calls it "White Falls," and to keep it off the ground he carries it in a bag when he walks.

Population Figures

Java Has Over Eight Hundred Persons To Square Mile

In an area of approximately 54,200 square miles, Czechoslovakia has a population of 14,600,000. Half of Australia's population, of 6,350,000 lives in capital cities and another 15 per cent. in provincial towns. The remaining 35 per cent. provide more than half the produce of the Commonwealth.

The Philippines, with all their 7,083 islands, have an area of only 114,000 square miles, or about that of the state of Arizona. The population of the Philippines is almost 12,000,000, while Arizona has only 435,000 inhabitants.

Belgium supports a population of more than 8,100,000 on an area of about 11,745 square miles. Java is the most thickly populated country in the world. It has 821 persons to the square mile. More than one-fifth of the local population of England and Wales live in Greater London.—National Enterprise Association.

A Natural Dislike

Is Main Reason Why Children Will Refuse Spinach

According to the Detroit Free Press two Yale University professors think they have found out why some children refuse to eat spinach. They say that while the weed (our word) ranks high in iron, calcium and protein content, analysis shows that only 20 per cent. of the iron, 30 per cent. of the calcium and 68 per cent. of the protein is utilized by the human body. This no doubt, is quite horrible, but we know even a better reason. The kids just don't like the taste of the stuff.

Has Faith In Newspapers

Chicago Firm Believes They Are Best Advertising Medium

General R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, announced that the company will spend $9,500,000 for newspaper advertising in 1936. The advertising campaign, which will include 851 newspapers in 44 states, is a result of the company's experiments with almost every type of medium since the opening of its retail stores eleven years ago, according to G. W. Cunningham, advertising manager.

"Results have demonstrated to us that the newspaper is by far the most effective medium for the promotion of our retail sales," Mr. Cunningham said.

"General Wood also announced a proposed increase of $600,000,000 is the firm's merchandising program in 1936. The program for 1936 is based on our belief in a further business revival and in the maintenance of improved farm conditions," he said.

Land Canoe Is Latest

Runs On Four Wheels And Is Propelled By Oars

Now all landlubbers who would like to row but are afraid of drowning can satisfy their wish on land. But they'd better be careful of automobiles. So far only boats have been rowed, but Umberto Bozzoli of Rome has invented a land vehicle which is propelled by oars.

The "land canoe," as the inventor calls it, consists of a small canoe seating one person, placed on four wheels. Two oars, one on each side of the "boat," propel and steer the contraption.

Capture Sea Serpent

Strange Creature Discovered On Beach At Pacific Coast

A 12-foot, 1,300-pound "sea serpent," discovered on the beach near Aberdeen, Wash., was being examined by a zoologist, D. W. Black of Baltimore, and his two assistants.

Black said the creature faintly resembles reconstructed skeletons of prehistoric animals. The creature has a head similar to that of a goat, eyes eight inches apart and deep-set like a pig's, and heavy, sharp teeth.

The nose is missing, but the distance from the crown of the head to the end of the snout is 14 inches. The body is tapered like a buffalo's, with a four-foot tail like that of a muskrat.

With heavy and oily skin, the creature has 14 ribs, each about an inch and a half wide and four inches apart.

Black said that in 10 years of research he never saw such an animal before.

Two years ago a "sea serpent" was washed ashore near Prince Rupert, B.C., but he turned out to be a wax-nosed shark.

Trying Out New Idea

Traffic Violators In Winnipeg Admonished By Travelling School

Embarrassed pedestrians and mortified motorists, guilty of traffic-law violations, blushed for shame as a travelling traffic school moved up and down Portage avenue, Winnipeg's "main stem."

Equipped with a loudspeaker, a police truck, painted bright scarlet, moved slowly along the avenue. An eagle-eyed constable kept watch for jay-walkers and errant motorists, admonishing them with a stentorian voice.

A stolid teamster started across a busy intersection. The loudspeaker roared: "You were late in crossing there, teamster." To an erring automobile driver: "You went against that light." Flushed necks were the rule along the route of the truck.

Staying pedestrians were warned—no one within blocks could hear it—to cross the street only at intersections.

Alarm Times 'Phone Talk

Device Gives Warning Half Minute Before Time Is Up

It no longer is necessary to watch the clock to avoid extra charges in telephoning. When the telephone operator announces that the three-minute interval is up, sometimes persons are in the midst of a conversation that cannot be finished without an extra fee.

An ingenious telephone call-time has been devised which warns of the approach of the end of the call. The device consists of an hour-glass arrangement which rings a bell at the end of two and a half minutes. The half-minute which follows before the end of the telephone period should be long enough to finish the conversation. The phone call alarm which was shown in Germany at the Leipzig fair is devised for world-wide use, as the limit for telephone call is three minutes in virtually every civilized country in the world.

Continue Work In North

Dominion Geologists To Carry On Investigations In Saskatchewan

Two Dominion geological parties will operate in northern Saskatchewan this year, one in the Rottenstone lake area, and the other at the eastern end of Lake Athabasca at Fond du Lac.

Dr. F. J. Alcock of the department of mines, Ottawa, will be in charge of the work at Fond du Lac. Early this spring representatives were made to Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines, to have work continue in the north and as a result of these representations the federal government has agreed to send these two parties in to continue investigations.

Revert To First Principles

If the benefits of Christianity were taken away, in less than three generations, men would be like beasts and gangsterism would spread through the community, crushing out those unable to resist power, declared Major H. A. Proctor, member of the British House of Commons, speaking at the Ontario convention of the Church of Christ Disciples, London.

An interesting story is told of the manner in which aid was given to the American Legation in Addis Ababa by British troops before the triumphal entry into the city by the Italians. The Legations in Addis Ababa were impelled by riotous Abyssinians before the arrival of the Italian troops. American newspapers were greatly excited over the efforts made on behalf of the United States Legation by the Sikh guard of the British Legation; and the American Ambassador has revealed how British assistance was solicited. The two Legations were only five miles apart; but the Americans were beleaguered by a murderous rabble and no message could be sent direct. However, with a small portable wireless set the American minister got in touch with one of his country's warships, who relayed it, via the Philippines, to San Francisco and Washington. Washington got on the trans-Atlantic telephone to the American Embassy in London; Mr. Bingham rang up the Foreign Office; and five minutes later Sir Sidney Barton in Addis Ababa was making his dispositions for the relief of the threatened Legation.

The story was fully and generously told by Mr. Bingham at a Guildhall dinner. He explained that when the news of the American Legation's danger reached Sir Sidney Barton, the British forces were engaged in beating off an attack upon the Belgian Legation, which lay next door.

There were perhaps some 3,000 refugees within the compound of the British Legation. The American Legation were taken it meant the slaughter of many people, but the very moment that that attack was beaten off an armed convoy went to the rescue of the American Minister and his wife, and the American Legation in our Legation. That is just a fundamental fact. It happens, and always will happen. It has been our privilege to extend that kind of aid. On this occasion it came unhesitatingly. It came exactly as I knew it would come—immediately, sympathetically, brave, and resourceful.

The King, who received from Mr. Bingham the thanks of the American President, sent his own congratulations to Sir Sidney Barton and to the Legation staff and guard. Belgian thanks were conveyed by the Belgian Ambassador through the Foreign Office.

Equals European Wood

Newfoundland Timber Is Good But Needs More Care

Newfoundland timber was generally admitted to be at least equal to Northern European wood in physical qualities, but the same care in production was not taken, said Mr. Chief Forestry Officer of the department of natural resources, said in a report published following a study of United Kingdom markets.

Chief Forestry Officer Turner said he talked with importers, dealers and users, operators of two cool mines, a paper mill, one newspaper mill, and a number of timber storage yards during his tour.

"Newfoundland wood is strong enough for pulp and structural timbers and gives a high yield of good fibre for paper making. Our spruce and balsam are rated as good raw material."

"Unfortunately, the finished product—pulpwood or wood wool stock—is often not good," the report stated.

While it was "almost unheard of" for a shipment of Finnish or Russian wood to be rejected, some wood was turned down in almost every Newfoundland shipment to the British Isles.

Oriental Duplicity

"The wily Chinese is peculiar," but a Japanese city's name has been changed to Macleodfield so that silk goods it produces can be sold in the British Empire as "Made in Macleodfield," an English city well known for its silk products. ## WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The skull of the Marquis de Montcalm, governor of French Canada at the time of the British conquest, will be placed on exhibition in a Quebec museum.

The king has given his patronage to the British council, set up to promote closer cultural relations between the United Kingdom and foreign countries.

It was authoritatively stated Australia will accept the plans of the British government for a bi-weekly flying-boat service between Singapore and Port Darwin. It is planned to begin service August, 1937.

Unemployed in the United Kingdom declined by 128,188 in the period from April 27 to May 25, it was announced. Unemployed employees as of the latter date totalled 10,831,000, an increase of 120,000 over the month.

Frank Barnard and Fred Schrader of Edmonton, both blind, have made a model of the liner Queen Mary. On a scale of one inch to 25 feet, the model is 41 inches long and complete in every detail.

Negotiations are afoot looking to a faster and better steamship service between Canada and Australia and New Zealand. Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, told the House of Commons.

J. R. Burbridge, junior city clerk in Halifax, earned $920 last year and won a $90 increase. This put him over the $1,000-a-year class, where he was subject to a 10 per cent cut. Now he draws $908 a year.

Plans for a flight across the South Atlantic in a free balloon were being made by Dr. Zinner, famous Hamburg pilot. The 3,700 miles between Casablanca, Morocco, and the mouth of the Amazon river can be covered in from five to eight days with prevailing winds, the balloonist said.

Manitoba is free from grasshoppers this year, for the first time in five years. H. E. Wood of the provincial department of agriculture stated recently. He said that $50,000 voted by the legislature for a poison-bait campaign will not be needed.

Preserving B.C. Landmark

Directional Finder Will Be Carefully Guarded In Future

A block of stone engraved with lead letters, left at Vancouver, B.C., in 1886 by the crew of H.M.S. Eggeria to determine longitude and latitude, has been uncovered near the sunset gun in Stanley Park.

The stone, buried under moss and gravel, was formerly used to correct errors in ship's instruments but fell into disuse and was completely forgotten.

Inscribed on the stone is the exact longitude and latitude of its position with a note it was placed there by the Eggeria, historic British survey ship.

The mark is badly worn by feet of careless visitors who were unaware a historic relic lay hidden beneath them. Steps are being taken to preserve the landmark. A protective barrier of chain and concrete will be erected around it or it will be raised on a stone pedestal surrounded by a small garden plot.

Marine Broadcasting Station

Latest Radio Equipment Integral Part Of Belfast Liner

According to the London Times, a new liner is now being built at Belfast which will have as an integral part of its equipment a complete broadcasting station. It will have not only an adequately powered transmitter of latest, most up-to-date design but specially constructed broadcasting studios and a special personnel for the purpose of planning and producing programs for the benefit of listeners ashore. The name of the ship is the Kanibilla.

When completed, it will sail from Belfast to its home port in Melbourne, Australia, where it will be put into active service between Adelaide, South Australia, and Cairns, North Queensland. The Kanibilla will be the first marine broadcasting station to be licensed by a government to transmit entertainment on regular schedules for listeners on land.

Many Memorial Plans

Late King George Will Be Immortalized All Over Empire

The late King George V. will be remembered through the ages. There have been 200 suggestions for memorials, aside from statues.

Among the leading suggestions for a "philanthropic" national memorial to the late king are:

Acquisition of land for a national park.

Homes for old people throughout the nation.

A medical research fund to include the provision of radium for cancer.

Hostels for young men and women seeking employment far from their homes.

(The money for the philanthropic memorial will be raised through public subscription.)

In addition, many towns and cities throughout Great Britain are selecting memorials.

It is proposed to have a stained glass window in Liverpool cathedral and a solid granite statue in Aberdeen.

A tablet will mark the spot where King George lay in state in Westminster Hall.

A plaque is being placed on the cottage in Wandsworth visited by the King on one of his jubilee tours.

There will be a great statue of King George on a site in London near Parliament Square.

And throughout the empire there will be innumerable statues and memorials to the dead monarch.

In New Delhi, India, there will be a statue approved by the King himself during his lifetime, placed in the centre of Princes Park.

Charles Jagger, sculptor, did before he finished the carving of the figure, but it will be completed.

The Princes of India are providing this monument as their contribution to the new winter capital of India where the foundation stone was laid by King George at the conclusion of his Coronation Durbar in 1911.

In Bombay there will be a memorial infirmary for incurables.

Britain Has Hard Problem

Diplomacy Will Be Needed To Settle Trouble In Palestine

The trouble the British government has run into in Palestine arises in considerable part because its wartime predecessor made too many promises.

It gave pledges to the Jews, and it gave pledges to the Arabs. In practice, if not in theory, those pledges clash.

The result has been a condition of chronic unrest throughout the Holy Land which is getting no less as the years pass, and at the moment is taking the form of something much resembling incipient war.

The British are notable for their ability to smooth away troubles within their Empire and in the spheres of influence, but if they can settle this one satisfactorily, in a way that will produce harmony instead of continuing strife, they may justifiably set as successors to Solomon the Wise—Detroit Free Press.

While trying to wring the neck of a chicken, a man in Tairns, New Zealand, let his fingers slip, and the sudden jerk broke his arm.

A Silken Thread

The Tie That Binds Together The Component Parts Of The British Empire

The recent proposal of a prominent American citizen that the interests of Canada and the United States would best be served were the two countries to join hands politically to form one great, powerful and resourceful country, appears to be meeting with little or no response on this side of the long, unguarded international boundary, and this fact will probably surprise many good Americans who consider themselves as our cousins in a broad sense.

Naturally there is a reason for Canadians being content to remain within the British Commonwealth of Nations, a reason one could hardly expect Americans to appreciate. The reason is that the tie that binds the Dominion of Canada to Great Britain is not an iron chain but a silken thread. At the outset of the development of Canada this country was governed by Great Britain, but as the country developed self-government developed until finally, under the statute of Westminster, Canada gained full nationhood as a member, with equal status, of the great British Commonwealth. The bond is aptly likened to a silken thread, but there is no disposition to break the slender tie—Swift Current Herald.

Great Progress Made

Montreal Doctor Hopes Eventually To Stamp Out Scarlet Fever

Scarlet fever, number one infectious disease, on the doctor's list, since diphtheria has been conquered, is now generally considered to be no more dangerous than chicken pox or measles, according to Dr. H. B. Cushing, Montreal, who presented a paper on the disease before the recent annual convention of the Ontario Medical Association.

Dr. Cushing warned that while scarlet fever is practically under control with the mortality rate down to one per cent, there is still danger of epidemics of great seriousness.

"If there were no scarlet fever many infectious hospitals would be closed," said Dr. Cushing. The development of tests and anti-toxins by Dr. and Mrs. Dick has added greatly to prevention, diagnosis and treatment, but these are not quite as satisfactory as similar methods used in diphtheria cases, he said.

Dr. Cushing was of the opinion the use of serum for scarlet fever is justified and was optimistic the disease would eventually be stamped out.

"Scarlet fever is practically certain to return in a very virulent form," said Dr. Cushing, "but it is comforting to know we can control the disease with serum."

MARCH OF PROGRESS

Year by year improvements succeed one another, on the prairies. The car gave way to the horse and buggy, and the horse and buggy gave way to the automobile, until now aeroplanes are gradually taking over many of the duties of the automobile. The latest step in the line of progress on the prairies is the coming of a powerful, high speed aeroplane ambulance to Regina to serve Saskatchewan, whose sponsors believe will save a great many lives. Preparations for the institution of this new service have been under way for a great many months. In the use of this aeroplane, the patient at a country point is placed on a stretcher, wrapped in blankets and is kept free from the danger of chills until admission to hospital.

TO RECALL THE PAST

Just before she started on her long journey to Vancouver to function in the Golden Jubilee ceremonies, Canadian Pacific locomotive No. 374, reconstructed in Western shops, Winnipeg, was photographed with her modern counterpart, the steel encased 2711. Both under steam, both were pronounced 100 per cent efficient, each in its own way. No. 374 is the exact replica of the old engine which hauled the first transcontinental train into Port Moody, B.C., then the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

With pageantry re-enacting the exact scene of fifty years ago, the coast terminus will hail the arrival of the old train's duplicate at 12 noon on Friday, July 3. Premier Pattullo and the mayors of Vancouver and Victoria will give addresses of welcome to which a Canadian Pacific locomotive will be W. H. (Billy) Evans, of Vancouver, back at his place after fifty years. P. A. Barnhart, of Kamloops, will take up again his duties as conductor. He is the only other surviving member of the train crew of 1886.

Many Years At Sea

Sir Edgar Britten Started His Career In Sailing Ship

Sir Edgar Britten, toiling the Queen Mary out on the high seas, first went to sea in sailing ships 44 years ago. In his youth he jettisoned his middle name, Theophilus, and it seems a pity, for he resembles the Roman Emperor and it was an apt name. Theophilus was an iconoclast and humorist, and so is Sir Edgar.

He has ridden pretty nearly everything the Cunard line ever set afoot, and was commodore of the Cunard fleet and captain of the Berengaria, among many others. He was knighted in February, 1934, the third of the Cunard staff to be selected for this honor. The others were the late Sir James Charles and Sir Arthur Roston. The only White Star commodore who has been knighted is Sir Bertram Hayes.

Last fall, due to the consolidation of the Cunard and White Star lines, there was much uncertainty as to the command of the Queen Mary, with matters of seniority involved. Sir Edgar, ready to retire at 60, was persuaded to sign on for three years more.

"You must be a proud man," says the King to the captain.

"I am, sir," says the captain to the King.

He left grammar school to become a sailor on the Barque Jessie Osborn. He joined the Cunard service in 1901. In 1903, he was given a commission in the Royal Reserve. Multitudes of sea-going folk know him and esteem him highly. He has not only a trim ship and trim person, but a trim vocabulary. He is a great spinner of yarns and given to salty and witty discourse.

JESUS EXALTED

Golden text: Wherefore also God highly exalted him, and gave unto Him the name which is above every name. Philippians 2:9.

Devotional Reading: Hebrews 2:9-10.

Explanations And Comments

Jesus Appears to the Eleven Disciples, Luke 24: 36-43. On the evening of the first Easter, while the two of whom Jesus had made himself known at Emmaus in the breaking of bread were telling the apostles in Jerusalem of their wonderful talk with the Risen Lord, he himself suddenly appeared in their midst and gave them the customary form of greeting, "Peace be unto you." The apostles were terrified, for they supposed they were beholding a spirit, "a form recognizable as that of Jesus, but of Jesus not risen but come from the world of the dead disembodied or only with an apparent body."

"Why are ye troubled? and wherefore do questionings arise in your heart?" he asked, and then to reassure them, to convince them that he was living and was not a disembodied spirit, he bade them see and touch his hands and his feet. "A spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye behold me having," he told them. "The resurrection body could evidently offer resistance to touch, but its nature escapes our conception." (A. E. Garvie).

While they still disbelieved for joy ("a curious yet real state of mind") he asked for something to eat, and when they gave him a piece of a broiled fish he ate before them.

The Leave-taking, Luke 24:50-53. Luke here omits all the other incidents of the forty days and records the ascension. With verse 50 compare Acts 1:3-11 and Eph. 4:10. They were on the eastern slope of the Mount of Olives, facing Bethany. The apostles believed that the abode of the blessed was up in heaven, and therefore the account speaks of Jesus as being "carried up into heaven." Jesus withdrew from the sphere of the seen and entered the sphere of the unseen and spiritual. He did not pass up or down through the vast spaces of the skies. We are not to think of him as far away. He is an unseen, divine Presence superior to the limitations of time and space." (C. R. Erdman).

There was no longer any doubt in the disciples' minds about the Deity of Christ, and they worshipped him. Then they returned to Jerusalem with great joy, for they knew that they had not lost their Lord, that his promise was true, he would be with them always. And they were continually in the temple at all the stated hours of worship blessing God.

Barometer Of Temperament

Teeth are a barometer of your temperament. If they have a bluish hue, you're temperamental; maybe even inclined to be neurotic. Yellow teeth indicate a jolly disposition. And pearly white teeth—the kind every one yearns for—are a sign of poor molars. . . . And speaking of teeth: America's sweet tooth has caused the per capita consumption of sugar in this country to nearly double since 1900.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

"That's kind of a crude description, but I'll have to do. Grab that hombre if you see him. Let the rest of us know. We don't want to stir up too much fuss. But we want—that—cash!" he ended with sharp emphasis on each word.

They nodded, jerking their hats lower, hunching cartridge belts, fixing a staryard here and there.

"Suppose we can't find him. What then?"

Link's eyes became brownish-grey pinpoints. "We'll find him."

"Yuh mean we're to raid the hull town if necessary?"

Fleming turned his horse. "I'm going to ride down Main Street as if everything was all right, keeping my eyes peeled. Shootin''ll be a signal he's found, of course. Laverly, you and Shaw go around the other side and do like Waco and the boys are goin' to. It's a crazy idea, maybe," he confessed. "But I aim to find that money if it's in Rawhide—and we've got reason to think it is!"

CHAPTER XVII.

The men scattered. Link built a cigarette, lipped and lighted it, then urged his mustang at a leisurely walk down the main thoroughfare of Rawhide, wedged in the heat.

Few persons were visible on the sidewalks, merely a scattering of ranchers come to town for supplies and to visit the post office. "Fly, Link," one man called, carrying out the custom of the last seven months.

"How's Fleming's Folly comin'?" Another loafer grunted audibly. "Don't really think yuh'll hold water there, do yuh, Link? Reckon yuh want that darn cash for a fort, to stand off creditors when they come a-gunnin'?"

The six-foot rider grinned—a little wryly, his keen eyes roving the street for a man in a checkered shirt. Also for Jackpot Mell. The gambler might step out of any door, round any building, for the showdown.

"Hey, Link!" Matt Benson called as if reading his very thoughts. "Mell's lookin' for yuh!"

He took out his sixgun and examined it carefully, spinning the cylinder and testing the trigger spring. By no means a professional gunman like his opponent, he nonetheless had had some experience defending himself. Link knew he was fast on the draw, but there was grave doubt in his mind whether he was fast enough when pitted against a professional killer like Mell.

He shrugged his shoulders. There was no way out of it. He would do his best, and the result must be left to fate.

Dismounting before Sam Pickett's store, he tied his mustang at the hitchrail, ducked underneath, and stood with lightning spurs across the board sidewalk. A number of customers were in the store, all known to him at least by sight. The holdup was not there.

Coleman Hot Plate Cooks with Air!

Link beckoned Pickett aside. He spoke in a tone so low that the grey-haired groceryman seemed to catch it. "Been a heavy-set chap in here with corduroys and a checkered shirt?"

Sam shook his head. "None. What's his name? Want him, Link?" He touched the butt of his gun significantly. "I wish you wouldn't mention this. I'm not sure of his name but I want him, yes. Let me know if he comes in, will you?"

Fuzzled, the storekeeper rubbed an eyebrow and nodded. "Sure."

Link turned away. Answering as briefly as possible the greetings of the customers, he sauntered out of the place. As he stepped over the threshold he paused for a sharp look up and down the street. It was necessary to keep a keen vigilance for Jackpot.

His errand repeated in Thomas's hardware store and the dingy Old-time Saloon was equally fruitless. In the latter place he discovered Fleming just ordering a drink.

From the steady look in his rider's eyes Fleming knew the wanted man had not been found.

The next building in line was the Half Moon. He shifted his gun back as slowly as he approached the place. This was Mell's hangout.

As the door flapped behind him he gave a quick look around. Mell was not present. He stepped to the bar, ordered a drink, and made a more detailed survey. Five men were setting up a card game at a wall table. Two others stood near Link at the bar. Gus, the rotund server, clasped a glass before him and filled it. As he was sipping the liquid, someone touched his arm.

He turned slowly to find Buzz Hamilton, wearing a queer, harried look. "Link, yuh got that steer money? Here's a note that says yuh should own, share-over to me."

He produced a slip of paper and tendered it.

The message was brief and business-like, signed by Helen, requesting that he hand the Triple H share to Buzz. Fleming gave the paper back.

"I haven't the cash right now. Had it, but I got robbed. Sah! Don't sweat it, Buzz—I trailed one of the homies to town," he whispered sweetly. "The other's 'bitch' out near Junction with a slug in his head."

The ex-convict's heavy eyes, bleary with drink, gleamed in suspicion. "Yuh can't stall me, Fleming!"

There was a faint hostility between them, but the manner of each man was subdued. "I'm not stalling, Buzz. It's God's truth. Why should I stall? Yuh're due the money, and I want my share."

Just then Roper Kilgo entered from the rear. "Yuh, Buzz, you got the cash? Then I'll tear up this transfer of yores. I ain't the guy to play cards for paper. I want hard cash!"

Fleming looked at Buzz. "What does he mean, 'transfer'?"

His hands closed until the knuckles shone white. "I've got to have that money before noon, and it's up to you to get it to me. That note proves I. Bring me the cash before noon," he insisted with keen anxiety showing through his arrogance. "I've got to have it before twelve!"

Link started to ask "What for?" but with a faint, hostile gesture the young Hamilton made, for the table at which Kilgo had seated himself. "Dey been playin' cards, Buzz loud," Gus, the bartender, whispered. "They play all night, by golly!"

A look of surprise made him lean across the bar. "Buzz, he give Gigo some kind of baby. And he's drinkin'—plenty!"

Fleming glanced to catch Roper's eye and the rancher indicated that he should sit down. "Come on, have a drink," he invited with a lordly air, rolling a thick black cigar between his lips.

"Reckon not, thanks."

It was more than likely a crude attempt to trap him, of course, that suave invitation. Jackpot Mell was certain to enter sooner or later. But Link preferred the shooting, if there was one, to take place outdoors rather than in the Half Moon.

"Aw," Buzz sneered in reply to something Roper said, "he claims he ain't got the money right now. Got to get a check cashed or something."

At any rate, Hamilton had kept the secret. Link paid for his drink and preparing to leave. As he handed back change Gus whispered to him: "Watch yore adze, Link. He's lookin' for you!"

"Thanks," Fleming purred aside. Just then a two-seater buggy drove up to the hitchrack before Pickett's bank and he recognized Helen Hamilton alighting. She saw him at the same moment and beckoned.

"Is Buzz in there?" was her opening question as he approached reluctantly.

"Yes."

cherry-red lips, looking up at him. "Could you—that is, would you—make him come out?" Oh, she hurried on. "Buzz said he had an important matter to attend to in town. That was—last night, just after Roper left. I—I went to bed, but this morning I discovered, Buzz hadn't come back. I didn't find out till an hour ago, as I got up early and went to look at the dam. The men insist they must have their money today," she added.

As Link nodded she stared downward and with the toe of one shapely riding boot made little marks in the dust. "I know Buzz has been gambling. It's been in his blood. I've seen the longing in his face ever since he came home. Is he—drinking much?"

"Quite a bit."

Helen sighed. "Is Roper in there?"

"Yes. It might be hard to get Buzz out. They played poker all night. Where did he get the money, Helen?"

"He didn't have much. But, Link, I—I'm afraid. You see, I gave him power of attorney."

"Yes. Roper said I should give Buzz more responsibility, then, if he should be the making of him. Why?"

The girl's wide eyes sought his, and when he did not answer at once she clasped his arm in apprehension. "Link! What has he done?"

"Well," came reluctantly, "he signed over your ranch to Roper on some kind of temporary scheme. For cash to play with, I reckon—a loan. He's in a rush for the steer money before noon."

He glanced at his watch. It's eleven now. Must be," he reflected. "Kilgo was forty enough to the Buzz up in some trick agreement. Either he must pay back the money Roper loaned, or, if he hasn't done it by noon, the Triple H changes hands!"

The girl's slender fingers went to her lips. "He couldn't!" she gasped, and turned to stare at the stolid front of the Half Moon.

"Yes, I reckon he could. It'd be legal, all right."

Waco Roper was approaching, still some distance off. At sight of him Halthy started from another direction, and Drew from a third. Helen touched Link's arm. "Well, you shipped the cattle, didn't you? Where's the money? We'll—we'll take up Roper's note."

"But why are you worried?" he questioned, delaying the truth as long as he dared. "If you and Roper are well, suppose Kilgo does get possession of your spread? I mean, if you and Roper are to be married, in this state a husband owns his wife's property anyhow."

He did not look at her as he spoke, and when he did lift his eyes, found her anxiety trebled. "But, Link," she wailed, "Roper wouldn't to Jackpot Mell that he didn't intend to marry me! That he was—it was all in order to get the ranch. Sheriff Stephen rode out the spread this morning and told me."

"And now—now," she struggled, "he's going to get it by this agreement with Buzz! Oh, why do you stand there?" the girl cried angrily. "Why don't you pay me the cattle money—and get Buzz out of this mess? It's ours, isn't it? We're entitled to it, aren't we? Why don't you give it to me?"

The Star Loop riders were almost in earshot, converging as they neared. Link's blazing head, strove to meet her looking eyes—but dropped his gaze to the road at his feet.

"Gosh, Helen, I would only I—I was held up. He gon'!"

Peddler's Son Is Judge

Canadian Elevated To New York

General Sessions Court

Joseph J. Goldstein, who journeyed to New York in his early youth from Rocks, Conn., B.C., and became a city magistrate, holds a general sessions judgeship at $24,000 a year.

Mr. Goldstein, just turned 50, passed his boyhood on New York's lower east side.

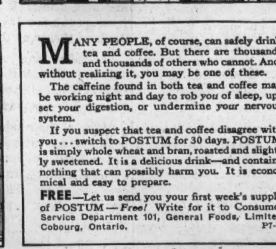

"I like trying to put together again like a crossword puzzle those who have taken a false step," Mr. Goldstein said.

Mr. Goldstein was born at Rocks, Conn., B.C. His father was a peddler. With his parents and two brothers and five sisters he came to New York when he was six years old to live in a tenement house.

A Dickens Story

Man Charged With Robbery "Recognized" Author As Receiver Of Stolen Goods

Everything to do with Charles Dickens, particularly at the present time, is interesting, says a correspondent in Sunday Times. Mr. Dickens and Mr. Mark Lemon attended at Marylebone police-court on March 20, 1894; the latter for the purpose of preferring a charge against Cornelius Heame for attempted robbery.

Mr. Lemon said in evidence: "I was walking with my friend Mr. Dickens along the Edgeware Road. I felt a hand in my coat pocket, and on turning round saw the prisoner draw his hand therefrom. I and Mr. Dickens ran after him, and he was shortly afterwards taken."

Mr. Dickens, at the station, said: "I thought I knew the prisoner, and that I had seen him at the House of Correction." Prisoner said: "Now, your worship, he must have been in 'quod' then himself or he could not have seen me. I know these two gentlemen well; they're no better than swell mob-men and get their living by buying stolen goods. (Laughter.) That one" (pointing to Mr. Dickens) "keeps a fence, and I recollect him at the prison when he was put in for six months, while I was only there for two."

The report goes on to state: "Both the literary gentlemen appeared to enjoy amazingly the honor which the prisoner had won by such unblinking effrontery conferred upon them." The prisoner's age is given as 19 years.

Fortress In Caspian Sea

Bank Far Below Surface Years Ago In Earthquake

Soviet scientists in Moscow said they believed the Caspian Sea, world's richest source of caviar, is drying up. In Baku harbor, deep water port, a fortress has appeared.

The scientists say the battlements were constructed 800 years ago by Persian Shahs as an outpost in the centuries of struggles between Russia and Persia arising. Long ago, it sank far below the surface of the sea in an earthquake but still the sturdy walls remain.

Underground canals extend more than 200 miles under the forests of Hamburg and Munich, Germany.

Fly Mathematics

Fly Can Become A Great, Great, Grandmother In Only A Few Weeks

A single female fly usually lays 600 to 1,000 eggs in her lifetime. Under favourable conditions these eggs hatch in ten or twelve days, and there is an opportunity for seven or more generations in a season! In other words, this single fly can produce in only three generations, a few weeks apart, as many as one billion disease-carrying menaces to health.

It is obvious that every effort should be put forth to destroy the first flies of the season. Each of the early flies killed means destruction of potential swarms.

As a menace to health, to say nothing of its disgusting loathsomeness, the fly is known to be a carrier of the germs of summer diseases, typhoid and other serious diseases. And, although sanitation efforts have been instituted to curb many sources of contagious diseases, there has been little success in eradicating the common house-fly.

It is a matter requiring personal effort to keep the home clear of flies. The elimination of possible breeding places such as uncovered garbage, refuse, manure, rotting leaves, screens on doors and windows and covering of all foods, are all necessary precautions. But, should flies enter the home, a few Wilson's Fly Pads, used regularly according to directions, will kill them all in a few hours.

Build Another Road

Highway From McMurray To Goldfields Is Projected

First link of a proposed winter road from McMurray, Alta., to Goldfields, Sask., on Lake Athabasca, a seven-mile highway will be constructed north from McMurray along the Athabasca river, Hon. W. A. Falgout, Alberta minister of public works, announced.

Docks would be built at the end of the seven-mile stretch, being built to avoid the necessity of handling freight by portage past rapids in the river at low water periods.

"I am still determined to get a road through to serve the Goldfields area as soon as possible," Mr. Falgout said. He added such a road was essential to the mining development of the north for which Edmonton is the natural gateway.

"Daddy!" exclaimed the little boy. "One more question, then," sighed the tired father. "Only one."

"How far is it?" inquired the tot. "Between to and fro?"

The letter "e" is used more than any other "e" in the English language.

Little Helps For This Week

Father, if Thou be willing, remove this cup from me; nevertheless, not my will, but Thine be done. Luke 22:42.

Just as Thou wilt is all that I would wish. Give me but, this, the heart to be content. And if my wish is thwarted, to be still. Waiting still, puzzle and till pain are spent. And the sweet thing made plain which Thou Lord meant.

Let your will be one with His will, and be glad to be disposed of by Him. He will order all things for you. What can cross your will when it is one with His, on which all creation hangs and around which all things revolve? Keep your hearts clear of evil thoughts, for as they estrange the will from His will they will cloud the soul and hide Him from us. Whatever sets us in opposition to Him makes our will an insupportable torment. So long as we will one thing and He another we will on piercing ourselves through and through with a perpetual wound, and His will moves on in sanctity and majesty crushing ours into the dust.

More Bibles For China Two million copies of the scriptures were circulated in China in 1935 by the American Bible Society, according to a report received in New York from the China agency of the society. For the fifth year in succession more complete Bibles were put in circulation in China last year by the three societies at work there than in any earlier year.
